Dutch New Guinea Landings Open Way For Offensives

Danube Mined

Traffic on the Danube has been halted, say official reports, following the mining of the famous river between Budapest and Bucharest. Thirty-ton, fully-loaded RAF bombers have been skimming the surface of the Danube to lay the mines on recent moonlight nights, guided by vari-colored flood-control lights flashed upon the river. The Danube had become particularly important as a medium for Axis supply movements since U. S. planes based in Italy began attacking Balkan centers.

Washington Roundup

It is disclosed exclusively in Washington today that President Roosevelt's closest advisers declare he has not yet made up his mind whether to seek a fourth term in the White House and has made no choice for a running-mate. Three vital factors, it is said, will influence his decision—the state of his health, the state of the European war and the state of international affairs as they affect future world peace.

As to the war, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, says in a progress report that the encirclement of Germany is in sight and circumstances in the Pacific present a situation which must be as dark and threatening to Japan as it is full of promise to us.

A leader from the Pacific theater, Australian Prime Minister John Curtin, is now in Washington to confer with America's top officials. Curtin who arrived yesterday for an indefinite stay before proceeding to the meeting of the British Empire Ministers in London, is expected to confer with President Roosevelt when he returns from his southern vacation.

The president, meanwhile, is giving Montgomery-Ward until tomorrow to comply with a WLB order to extend its contract with the CIO. Company failure is expected to result in government seizure. Union leaders decided to terminate the Montgomery-Ward strike at presidential demand.

Also in the Washington picture, Argentine embassy officials disclose they have protested against the new March of Time film, "South American Front," for what they termed its "offensive" treatment of Argentina. The house ways and means committee introduces its tax simplification bill today and the mass session trial opens its second week.

Russians May Be Preparing New Offensive

Increased Air Activity Is Reported Over Eastern Front By Moscow RESERVES BEING MOVED TO FRONT (BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
MOSCOW, April 24.—Increased air activity over the eastern front led to the belief today that the Red army may be preparing for a fresh offensive within old Poland and in Estonia where heavy losses were inflicted on the counter-attacking Germans. The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau quoted a Berlin military spokesman as reporting "red" Soviet armies have been created behind the northern front. Powerful Russian reserves, the broadcast added, are being brought to the front line to open a "great Baltic offensive...at any moment."

In Pre-War Poland After the regular Soviet communiqué, one of the shortest issued this year, said "no important changes" had occurred on any front, a supplementary report described action in pre-war Poland and along the Narva river in Estonia. In both these sectors the Germans have been staging counter-offensives with the Red army obviously biding its time for a heavy blow at the enemy. The supplementary communiqué conceded that the Nazis had driven a wedge into the "forward edge" of Russian troops holding a bridgehead on the western bank of the Narva. Southwest of the Narva, the tank-paced enemy infantry was surprised.

Says President Is Undecided On Fourth Term

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, April 24.—President Roosevelt's closest advisers are authority today for the statement that he has not yet made up his mind whether to seek a fourth term in the White House. The same sources are authority too for the statement that Mr. Roosevelt has expressed no final choice as yet on a running mate if he should decide to seek another term as President. Mr. Roosevelt's advisers themselves are not yet agreed on the choice of a vice presidential nominee on a fourth term ticket. The President is pictured as waiting until after the Republicans hold their convention in June before reaching a decision on a fourth term. It is said there are three vital factors which will influence the President's decision on running again. They are:

1. The state of his health.
2. The state of the war in Europe.
3. The state of international affairs as they affect the future peace of the world.

Council To Bid On Old Library Site For Taxes

When city council met this morning in the municipal building, Attorney Gilbert Long, assistant city solicitor, was ordered by council to protect the city's property by bidding in the North Jefferson street property which has been administered by the library board and which according to advertisement was to be sold Tuesday for delinquent taxes. The site is now occupied by a bus station and restaurant. The old library formerly occupied the site.

According to reports there is a controversy as to whether or not the operators should pay all the taxes.

Further, council determined to hold a conference with library board trustees to straighten out some affairs which the council believes requires straightening.

The library board reportedly collected rent because the city has never told the board not to do so. The money goes into the library board's general fund and can be used by them.

Council was advised by legal advisors that if the council was disposed to stop the practice of all council need do would be to inform the board to that effect and the city could collect the money and use it in the city's general revenue fund.

In north Burma, east of Mogaung, Chinese troops have advanced farther south of Warazup. Other units, despite stiff artillery and machine-gun fire from the Japs, now are one mile northwest of Warang. East of Mogaung, the Chinese crossed the Lakraw river and are approaching Managahatung.

A substantial force of troops was flown in behind the Japanese lines in Burma to reinforce allied units now operating to the rear of the Nipponese.

Don't Day-Dream; Help Win War!

We believe with Undersecretary of War Patterson that in this country there has been far too large a crop of postwar plans and far too little realization that we still have a war to win.

All of us long for peace and happier days. That's only natural. But too many of our people are living in a rosy haze of peace already won and are dreaming pleasantly about new cars, new homes, new gadgets, trips further and you and plenty of beefsteak, reminds the Philadelphia Inquirer.

These fond hallucinations are not shared by the boys in New Guinea and in Italy. They are not shared by the boys who fly the bombers through Nazi ack-ack. They are not shared, certainly, by the thousands of young Americans waiting, in England, for the start of the greatest military project in all history.

Postwar planning there must be of course. We must plan now to utilize every possible means of providing peace-time jobs in productive endeavor for the millions of returning service men and women and for millions of workers now in war-related industries. For all of these we must plan jobs, not doles.

We must plan now, also, for the building of a better world and the prevention of wars. We must plan now for the unlimited postwar use by America of air bases around the world.

But we must not permit postwar plans, particularly selfish ones, to become an obsession. We must not allow them to blind us to the stark realities of a war that must still be won.

As things stand now almost every Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, commercial club, labor union, salesmen's organization, trade convention, women's club, house organ and Monday Evening Jolly Bowlers' club is pre-occupied with up-and-at-em postwar plans.

A good many of these plans, taking off from the illusory idea that victory is all over but the shouting, have to do with making more money and living more carefree lives.

Partly to blame for this is the human trait of wanting to get rid of an unpleasant task and escape from annoying restrictions and prohibitions. Partly to blame, too, is a government that continually treats the American people as babies, shielding them from bad news, sugar-coating the facts of war for them and failing to arouse them to the magnitude of the Nation's undertakings.

It's not easy, in a boom era when many people are making more money than ever before, to drive home the grim truth that the war is far from won and that the day-dreamers had better come down out of the clouds. But it's got to be done somehow.

The boys who are fighting the Japs and the Nazis have their dreams, too. They're not dreaming about making big money, buying flashier cars than their neighbors, staging bigger and better strikes. They're dreaming about getting back to their loved ones alive and unharmed.

All of us here at home owe it to the boys now fighting and dying for us, and to those about to die for us, to make our sole objective the quickest possible winning of the war, resolutely putting aside the dreamy, selfish postwar planning that contributes nothing whatever to victory.

War On Two Fronts

There can be no question of the disorganized condition of German troops on the Eastern Front. They may not be demoralized, but at least they are in a state which precludes the possibility of an effective stand against the red armies.

There arises, accordingly, the question of whether these conditions are peculiar to the Eastern Front alone or whether the apparent loss of initiative and spirit and capacity to resist is characteristic of the armies of the Reich generally.

The Crimean operations gain in significance as an evidence of rapidly winning Nazi military power when they are considered in connection with the recent history of the Russian campaign. Even though the Crimean Peninsula was isolated and the advancing Russian armies had the advantage of an impetus which had been sweeping all resistance out of the way, it was not expected that the fight would be anything but long and desperate. Instead, it seems now, the complete conquest of the Crimea will be a matter of but a few weeks.

What does this signify with respect to the Western Front when it is opened? Can armies that have known unvarying defeat for two years, that have been in steady retreat toward their own borders, that have endured great sufferings in battle and from the severe climate of the inhospitable land which they invaded, that have experienced heavy losses in killed, wounded and captured, hold their own against great new armies of fresh men?

Can they bring to this newest test of resources and fighting qualities the spirit necessary to sustain them when tragic experience and their own reasoning powers tell them that their country is in process of destruction and that defeat is inevitable?

It is foolish to underestimate the resources, the skill and the courage of German armies. They have proved that they are capable of enduring desperate days. Nevertheless, they have shown signs of weakness, both in the air and on the ground, which suggest that they cannot hold the Russians in the East and the Americans and British in the West. It is only necessary that one front give way for Allied armies to storm into the Reich.

Will Have To Wait

Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio says it is foolish to hope for any greatly increased amount of civilian production until after Japan is whipped and that expectation of turning the factories loose for a normal output when Germany is crushed is not straight thinking.

His remarks contain food for thought. America, officially and unofficially, embarked on a civilian production spurge in the late months of 1943 and now is discovering that it is far in advance of the realities.

It was reported, almost authoritatively, that this year 2,000,000 electric flatirons would be manufactured. There is a pronounced shortage of them and the production troubles of the laundries make it advisable to get irons into the hands of housewives as soon as possible. But the War Production Board has cut the 2,000,000 program back to 200,000 and has ordered a new survey of the flatirons needs of the country.

Government labor experts told the WPB that if the manufacture of 2,000,000 flatirons began, it would drain manpower away from critical war production yet to come off the assembly lines. It seems more likely than ever that important civilian production is to get the go-by until the war is over.

Yale professor predicts the Axis will be disarmed after the war is over. We can do him one better than that. We believe the Axis will be disarmed before the war is over.

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

Price Battle Looms

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The opening guns of a fight that is likely to generate a lot of heat and noise can already be heard on the Washington front. This is the fight by selfish pressure groups to tear holes in the price control act which expires at the end of June. They're far too shrewd—the pressure lobbies—to try to kill the law. They know people generally wouldn't stand for that.

Instead, they're attempting something much more subtle. By apparently the most minor and innocent changes—just dropping out a word here and adding an amendment there—they can cut the heart out of the law.

The price control administrator is ordered, under the act, to establish "generally fair" prices. Prices can't be fair to everybody; some inequities are inevitable. Take out the word "generally" and the law becomes unworkable.

Make Difficult Task

Likewise, if you provide that the rulings of the Office of Price Administration can be reviewed in the 95 federal district courts instead of in the one emergency court of appeals, then, too, you will hamstring the tremendously difficult task of trying to hold the price line.

A committee of members of the House has been formed to save price control. They're trying to show the public what it will mean if the law is gutted. It's something of a new departure—to get ahead of the pressure lobbies and tell the real story first.

To my way of thinking, the members of that committee form a kind of honor role. They have said a loud and positive no to the pressure groups that each has in his own backyard. The Republicans on the committee are Burdick, Welch, and Wolcott. The Democrats are Taft, McNamara, Ford, E. A. Tamm, Clegg, C. C. Brannan, and C. C. Brannan. In addition, 20 others have endorsed the efforts of the committee.

Co-operation Policy

This group is proof, if any were needed, of the wisdom of Chester Bowles' policy of co-operation with Congress. Bowles, a quiet, slow-speaking New Englander who made a success in his own business, is one of the heartening signs in this troubled time.

You feel reassured about government when you talk to him. Fair-minded, reasonable, with no bright new axes to grind, Bowles nevertheless holds to the line.

When he stepped in, OPA was the most unpopular and discredited agency in Washington. Partly this was because of the exaggerated tough job the organization had to do—applying wartime restrictions to a proud, headstrong, free-wheeling people.

I think he felt, when he first took over, that the job would be easier than it has turned out to be. Through endless days and nights of work he discovered just how hard it is. The pressure has come from every quarter.

The present law could stand a lot of improvement. But its backers will be satisfied if they get it extended as it is.

Contemplate Extension

Congress is contemplating a one-year extension. That is much too short. Next year, granted the war in Europe is over, the pressure to take off all controls will probably be out in the open. And that will invite the kind of financial whipsaw that caused so much misery after the last war.

The warning signs are up all over the place. At a recent meeting of the economic stabilization committee, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board painted a scary picture of the billions in price cash—an increase in the "inflationary potential" in the past three years of 115 billions—lying about the economic landscape.

It will not be easy to hold the line this time. One of the subtle arguments is that it's only necessary to control prices on a few essential commodities. Let fur coats and diamonds go sky high. This sounds good but it would throw everything out of balance.

Congress should provide for extension of the price control act for the duration and at least a year afterward. In these times, with the money tide sweeping so high, a year is a very short time.

RETURN

Once more the sight of raiment black
Tells us the golfing parson's back.
Again as maple buds unfold,
His ink-shaded derby we behold
And hear him calling, "Let us play!"
"The golfing parson's back!" we say.

All winter long his cloister dim
With solemn books has prisoned him.
All winter long to souls astray
He pointed out the narrow way—
The pathway straight the good winds sweep.

But is so difficult to keep.

Now back he comes at golf to play—
Like us into the rough to stray;
Like us to blunder as before,
Slip from his best and spoil the score.

Like us to learn as faults recur,
How very human 'tis to err!

About the worst thing that can happen to a married man is to have to stay at home during housecleaning time.

It's always hot news when the government freezes something.

"What is your favorite sport, doctor?" a friend asked an eastern medic.

"Sleight-of-hand," he replied.

"Of course, doctor, but I mean aside from business."

Housecleaning time, says H. Hump, would last but half as long if he wasn't always finding such interesting old newspapers in the attic.

SENSE OF HUMOR

"One of my brothers heckles all of my friends during serious conversation," complains a girl's note found among my morning mail.

"When I call him down he says 'howdy' to me and goes on his way."

There is nothing more annoying than a person with a distorted sense of humor. A sense of humor is an invaluable asset to one gifted with the instinct to apply it just at the right time. But the parlor clown who puns or giggles at what is seriously spoken or is constantly reminded of anecdotes that interrupt interesting currents of discussion is a social liability. I use the word liability because a true sense of humor is something inherited rather than acquired. The lucky person born with it knows just when and where not to turn the sparkle of his wit upon what others are saying. He is a magician who can lead conversation out of lines leading to contention and who can so spice his own opinions that they never savor of conceit. But will a person unless one is an adept in the fine art of applying it. Those not so gifted conjure up theories are discarded. And it's always a case of "ladies first"—except, perhaps on a ladder!

Question: Should a man precede or follow a woman going up and down stairs?—O. O.

Answer: If the stairway is dark and too narrow for the two to walk together, the man should precede the woman, whether they are going up or down. But under ordinary circumstances, the woman should precede him going down. In the era gone by, modesty prescribed that he go upstairs first, so that he would not glimpse her ankle as she raised her skirt slightly. But, of course, now such old-fashioned theories are discarded. And it's always a case of "ladies first"—except, perhaps on a ladder!

Mr. Dewey Will Speak

WASHINGTON, April 24.—ON THURSDAY next Governor Dewey is scheduled to speak in New York before the American Newspaper Publishers Association. It is an important group and it will be Dewey's first extended public utterance since his nomination for president was virtually assured by the Wisconsin primaries and the Wilkie withdrawal, there was an unusual public interest in what he has to say. On this occasion it is likely Mr. Dewey will again make clear his position on foreign as well as domestic policy. The fact of course, is that practically everyone who follows the record has known for nearly a year Mr. Dewey's views on post-war international cooperation, which is the particular thing it is desired he should reiterate.

THERE IS no reason for Dewey embarrassment in the situation and those who have talked with him report him entirely unembarrassed. So far as the charges of isolationism are concerned, it must be recalled that in those days that was the general trend in both parties. Certainly it can be shown that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Wilkie were preaching that isolationism. On the contrary, they were both taking an extremely nationalistic point of view, insisting that this nation, regardless of lend-lease, would remain neutral and insisting on this at a time when the inevitability of our entrance ought to have been apparent. After the election, both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wilkie became much more pro-British than before, but it was only after Pearl Harbor that they became really global minded.

THE SAME thing is true of Mr. Dewey. Since we entered the war, step by step, he has moved away from his "isolation trend" until today he has caught up with the Masses. Roosevelt and Wilkie, as you know, at present, the same kind of post-war international cooperation for which they stand, and has been even more specific in his insistence upon a permanent British-American alliance as the basic essential for a permanent peace. LEARNING CORRECT SPEECH

Many adults and teen-age youths and a few younger children have been captivated by "Mairzy Doots." "Mairzy Doots" is a song which is a little naïveté of a kind which is not, wouldn't you? Then it suggests that if the talk sounds funny just say, "Mairzy Doots" and does eat and little lambs eat ivy, a kind of ivy too.

Of course, the simple rhythmic melody of the song has appeal. Yet the psychology of it is chiefly the escape it offers to the older person, letting him imagine himself a tot repeating nonsense. While he is sure he is superior to the baby, it allows him to wave the magic wand and turn himself back to babyhood and repeat again to his own age. It reveals a surprising attitude toward young children.

Let no one suppose young children purposely invent such nonsense as "Mairzy Doots." Little children do like nonsense rhymes, but not especially such rhymes as grow out of the slovenly speech of adults. Moreover, they have stood the test of time for young children are those whose words don't run together to sound like something else.

Misunderstanding of Words
The trouble is that what young children hear us say may not be at all what we suppose we are saying. If you would ask us to listen to a recording of our own speech about the home, taken up by a child, did not know it. How very difficult it must be for the child, beginning speech to learn it from us. Even after entering school, the child picks up some phrases and expressions which seem funny to us.

Nevertheless they are what he heard or thinks he heard. When children hear us and other children repeat certain selections or songs in concert their confusion may be greater still. So it is not strange at all that a youngster should suppose he has heard at school, "Liza Grinning at my mind us," or "My country 'tis of thee, or at church, 'The cross-edged'."

Some years ago, I asked several hundred elementary school children who once a week repeated in concert the "Pledge of Allegiance to the flag," to write as much of it from memory as they could. I received many statements from them which at first astonished me but upon reflection merely made me see how stupid we were not to teach these expressions of patriotism in a way by which all children learn them correctly.

At home and school, we should have such treasures as our National Anthem.

Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.—I Cor. 1:18.

Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.—I Cor. 1:18.

Mothers Of Daughters In War Commended
Have A Right To Be Proud Of Their Parts
Olive Drab Supplants Chic Forgal WearBy HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—It had happened to hundreds of mothers before her. It would happen to hundreds more. For this was an all out war. You could destroy anybody or anything in this war.

Women were an active part of it. The battle dress many of them were wearing was proof of that equality with men for which they used to crusade. Her own daughter was proof of that equality. For was she not going overseas? Endless miles away to a place that had been only a name in the geography book? Going into heaven only knew what danger and grief!

Other mothers said she should be proud. Her daughter would have such a thrilling chance! These, of course, were mothers whose own daughters were very young or not concerned with a personal share in the war.

"Don't be a fuddy duddy," they said. "Don't you know your daughter has no right to even try to keep a child from sharing the experiences of her own generation? Wouldn't you have wanted to do the same thing?"

Would Have Done Same

She would have done the same thing. But what she herself did was different. This child was still a baby. She knew she was being sentimental. She ought to be ashamed of such softness. Of these commonplacé feelings and thoughts, but how low was it—surely not more than a year or two—since she had sat beside her daughter, coaxing.

Please, now! Just one more spoonful, darling. It's such nice oatmeal! That had been her way to raise a baby. Bad character building. The books said so. For didn't it take character to march voluntarily into this war?

Well, probably have about two weeks of cholera shots and such an outbreak. It was the same baby now in uniform, and she was talking as the regular "foot locker" was being packed for the long journey.

Foot-locker! What strange frightening words had come into the family vocabulary with the sudden orders for "permanent station outside the continental limits of the United States."

You must remember that the whole business of going is restricted material, her daughter was cautious. And folded down a pair of herringbone twill trousers and blouse. Restricted material means you can't tell anybody about anything.

What about the tags they had had late at night about parties and dates? Was that "restricted material"? No. That was a preparation for living. This was—what WAS this anyhow?

"I've thought of what I'll do with my cosmetics, mother," she heard her daughter say. "I'll just tuck them somewhere into my gas mask. So they won't spoil."

"That is a good idea," she made herself answer. Then, "Yes, dear, I've got your serial number. Yes, I've got your A. P. O. Yes, I understand about the power of attorney. Certainly I hear every word."

Mother Is Mute

Now a powdered dressing gown was being played about an olive drab shirt. Thanks for the feminine fills. I'll enjoy them. Good! I wish the centrepieces weren't so big where I'm going. If the Japs should decide to bomb my new home, I ought to be able to dodge.

They teach us how. But I sure am afraid of bugs. Remember what a dumbbell I used to be over about insects? It's silly of me to have a phobia about bugs. What? You (Continued on Page Seven)

CHICAGO—Ere-investigation assurance by WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson. "Our men will have the finest war material of all types, in the greatest amounts ever seen, to match their courage and discipline."

WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, announcing 30 nations' agreement on the principles of the postwar eight billion dollar international currency stabilization plan. "Anybody who wants to be fair will admit that it is the keystone of postwar economic planning."

CHICAGO—Comedian, Ika Chase: "Men think they've got a corner on the booty privilege regarding women's clothes. But what could be funnier than some of the horrible sports socks some men wear or their loud socks and ties?"

NEW DELHI—Indian Information Minister Sir Sultan Ahmed: "Foolish people are asking why the Japanese ever were allowed to set foot on Indian soil. Such questions are answered only by events—just wait and see."

Rome was declared an open city once before in this campaign by the Italians. Yet, reconnaissance planes recorded the fact that the Germans were using the city as a concentration point for men and supplies. The city was bombed and the Italian government fell. If the Germans remain, if they have abandoned removing troops or defenses from the areas it doubtless will be bombed again.

It is unfortunate that historical monuments must be subjected to bombing and artillery fire. The loss to posterity is great. But we are not sending millions of American boys to Europe on a mission of pillage. Nor are we sending them there to sacrifice their lives in preference to sparing historical structures if the enemy is using them as forts or defenses. We are in Europe to defeat the Germans, and it is necessary to level every city within our path to achieve that objective or to save the life of American boys, then the sooner they are leveled the better.

It will take more than the whim of a Nazi radio announcer to convince the Allies of their sincerity. Especially when we remember Rotterdam.

More Wounded Veterans Reach Deshon Hospital

BUTLER, Pa., April 24.—(INS)—Deshon Army hospital authorities today disclosed that 10 Pittsburgh district soldiers and two from Butler, injured in the Italian campaign, were among the veterans received from a hospital train Friday.

Speaking for his buddies, with whom he made the long trip from a North African port, Corp. Raymond S. Ackerman of Pittsburgh said:

"We sure are glad to be finished with our long journey and to be back in the States. We have all dreamed of this many times."

Ackerman, holder of the Purple Heart, saw 18 months of action in North Africa and Italy before being wounded by German rifle fire.

The district veterans received included: Sgt. Clarence R. Reges, R. D. 1, and Pvt. Andrew A. Minehart, both of Butler.

Rev. Edward Gustafson, who is pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle in Titusville, Pa., has been appointed and commissioned a Chaplain (First Lieutenant) in the Army of the United States.

Rev. Gustafson will be leaving for Harvard University, Friday, April 28, where he will attend chaplains school before being assigned to any definite post.

Rev. Gustafson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gustafson of Conshohocken, Pa., who were former residents of New Castle.

Governor Lauds Spirit Of Poland

HARRISBURG, April 24.—(INS)—The unconquerable spirit of Poland was lauded today by Gov. Edward Martin, who urged that Pennsylvanians pay tribute to that nation on May 3, the 150th anniversary of its constitution.

"The people of Poland recognize and hold dear the principles of democracy for which the civilized world is fighting today," the chief executive said. "Their example should inspire us to greater unity, to more untiring effort to speed the day of victory when Poland will once more hold a proud place among the free nations of the world."

Civilian Defense Volunteers Will Aid Soldier Vote

HARRISBURG, April 24.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's 415 civilian defense volunteer officers were preparing today to aid the state defense council in conducting a statewide canvass to obtain military addresses for the November 7 general election.

Established in the early stages of civilian defense, the officers have become centers of community activity of various kinds. Mrs. E. A. Van Valkenburg, state director of Civilian Defense Officers, reported to Ralph C. Hutchinson, executive director of the council, she disclosed that practically all the offices are functioning. Directors of the officers were asked by the council to correct their membership lists in preparation for the canvass, which will be authorized by the General Assembly at its special session May 1.

Schools Collect Nearly 60,000 Cans

Week's Collection Shows Marked Increase Over That Of Previous Week

City school children were much busier last week collecting tin cans as the time draws nearer for the special theater party. The city total was back up close to the 60,000 mark.

West side was again the only school to report 100 per cent participation among the pupils. Thaddeus Stevens led the other group of schools with 99 per cent. Arthur McGill reported the best collection. Their pupils turned in over 9000 cans last week. For individual leadership, Elizabeth Harper continued to lead the city with her collection of 1315. The winner at Arthur McGill was 8-year-old Eddie Zimmerman whose collection numbered 627. At West Side, Charles Walzer was high for the sixth straight week. Charles Kelly, grade 1, age 6, is new winner at Thaddeus Stevens. Charles collected 525 cans last week. These pupils will be heard on the tin salvage radio broadcast Tuesday at 6:30 p. m.

All pupils of the city and county are reminded that they have but one more week to swell their total collection to 350 cans and make them eligible for a ticket to the big theater party on April 29.

"Got your Post-war
Car picked out yet?..."

★ "Sure, we're all short of help these days—and I may need a little more time, but you can depend on me to do these jobs carefully:"

Oil must be changed—old, worn-out oil drained and fresh, strong Esso Motor Oil in the summer grade correct for your car put in.

The chassis must be lubricated from stem to stern—at every point where wear might become serious. The older your car gets, the more it needs this lubrication.

The battery needs an examination, too. Maybe it should have a full charge for quick summer starts.

The radiator should be drained of all sediment, and fresh water put in. Couplings may need tightening, or replacing.

The tires must be checked for signs of wear or damage. Maybe switching 'em around can balance the wear, give you additional tire life now when you need it most!

The transmission and differential are important—let me look 'em over and make sure they have the proper lubrication.

"Mister, you're probably driving it right now... and if you don't think so, think this over..."

"EVERYONE who ought to know agrees there just won't be new cars for everyone until quite a while after the war.

"That means the only car you're apt to have for a long time is the one you've got right now. So take care of it as you never have before!

"I can help a lot—if you'll let me. I've got the equipment and the reliable Esso products that will really save wear. Just let me go over your car regularly—especially right now, between Winter and Summer.

"Look at the check list of things that need doing, and let's start getting them done.

"All these things won't cost much. They won't take long. But they're important for your transportation if they get done now.

"And I can't do it alone. You've got to bring the car in—let's start today—what say?"

THE PARENT
PROBLEM

tional Anthem, "America" and the Pledge of Allegiance displayed in the clear printed form and we should go over them slowly with the child explaining when necessary, what each word and phrase means. Often we should read slowly as well as sing together "America" or the National Anthem.

Enunciate Distinctly

When we read aloud to our young children and speak in their presence we should make ourselves enunciate distinctly. My list of books from which to read to the baby and young child may be had for postage in the usual way.

Teachers in the grades and high school might, however, use "Matry Doats" as a means to lead children to see the need of learning to speak distinctly.

Most of all, we parents and teachers should teach children to pronounce their own names distinctly. Go to a convention and sit with a group of delegates at a dinner table. If you are introduced, you hardly hear half the names distinctly and if each person gives, instead, his or her own name still fewer of them will you be able to get.

Solving Parent Problems

Q How may one obtain your special home helps in spelling, reading and arithmetic?

A By writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it for each bulletin desired.

Q When do you expect to see a marked decline in juvenile delinquency?

A If I live long enough, when a new crop of babies are brought up by parents who really control them in the essentials of good citizenship at home and in the community, especially so-called good parents. We've seen nothing yet, the bulk of the unspanked generation has not yet reached adolescence, or even the age of ten or twelve. My bulletin "Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed" may be had for postage by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with six cents in stamps on it.

Ellwood City Has
New School ProjectPurification B.V.M. Church Undertakes Project Estimated
At $40,000

(Special To The News)

ELLWOOD CITY, April 24.—An estimated project of approximately $40,000 has been started by the Purification B.V.M. church of Ellwood City, in the building of a kindergarten and primary Catholic school and Catholic Center on Third streets and Lawrence avenue.

Rev. Fr. Vincent Galliano, pastor of the church, and Rev. Fr. Joseph Pernatozzi, assistant pastor, announced that the campaign to obtain $25,000 started in October 10, 1943, for the project, is progressing well, and to date $17,000 has been obtained, $10,000 of which has been in cash.

Upon its completion the school will include kindergarten, primary grades, a gymnasium, basketball court, bowling alleys, and an Ellwood City Catholic center. At present the two-year campaign for the school fund is still on, and parishioners are continuing with their splendid cooperation.

Approval of this purchase and project was made by The Most Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese on September 17, 1943, and approval was also received by the local priests from the state and from the W.P.B. The project will continue at its present rapid pace, as long as the purchasing of necessary working materials available, and which to date have been easily purchased.

The project is planned by the local architect Mr. McCandless, and the progress is supervised by Father Galliano and Father Pernatozzi.

Four Salesian Sisters of St. John Bosco, missionary sisters and social workers, are at the B.V.M. church convent, and additional sisters will arrive here to teach at the school upon its completion. It is expected that the kindergarten will be opened in September.

The project could not have progressed so splendidly without the cooperation of the parishioners, local people and many others who have given their time and support, and for this Father Galliano and Father Pernatozzi, are deeply grateful.

The present Purification church, on Fourth and Park, was dedicated on March 27, 1930, by the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle. When the additional nave on either side of the church were built to accommodate larger crowds, a new dedication took place on August 26, 1930, and this was conducted by Rev. Fr. Andrew Pauley, secretary to the bishop.

THE GREAT GAME

that political expediency affected his views in 1940, so are they—and so are a good many others, Democrats as well as Republicans. The fact that both parties have swung away from the "isolationism" in which they were steeped in the last campaign. Today Republicans as well as Democrats are thoroughly committed to full American participation in a collective international organization after factoring stops. Almost without exception, every man ever spoken of in connection with the Presidential nomination has declared himself in accord. The one exception is General MacArthur whose views are not known and whose chances of becoming the Republican candidate are not great.

IT DOES seem that the two parties occupy almost identical positions on this question at this time; that with Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Dewey as opposing candidates there would be little room to raise the issue. The record shows that in the last twenty years there has been not much to choose between the Democrats and the Republicans so far as international cooperation is concerned. It is true that after the defeat of the Versailles Treaty in the Senate, in which certain Democrats assisted, the Republicans swung toward the isolationist side and away from leaders like Taft, Hughes, Root and Hoover who were pro-League. But in 1934 the Democrats abandoned their stand for international cooperation, and renewed it only after the 1940 election. Few who were present at the Democratic Convention of 1924 in New York will ever forget the moving and impassioned plea of the late Newton D. Baker for his party to keep faith. In one of the greatest speeches ever made in such a gathering, Mr. Baker urged the adoption of a League of Nations plank in the platform. Almost immediately after he spoke the convention, while applauding his eloquence, voted overwhelmingly against his proposal. Nor can it be recalled that the voice of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a conspicuous figure in that convention, was raised in behalf of the League plank.

THUS, IT is seen both parties for a good many years past shied away from international cooperation—and both have now accepted the principle. The Republicans went in the isolationist direction earlier. It is true, but Democratic abandonment followed very quickly. Neither the parties nor their leaders have a record for steadfastness or conviction on this issue. Neither is justified in throwing stones at the other. Without discounting the President's post-1940 soundness or Mr. Wallace's services, it has taken another world war to make clear the stupidity of isolationism, to break us away from the ostrich policy of non-participation in the affairs of the world and force us into the enlightened and logical position.

Simplified Tax Measure Is Prepared

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 24.—The house ways and means committee planned to formally introduce today its tax simplification bill—designed to free thirty million taxpayers from filing income tax returns beginning next January 1.

The measure, according to Rep. Doughton (D-N.C.), chairman of the tax-writing committee, will not come up for house action before next week. Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.), chairman of the senate finance committee, promised prompt action when the measure goes to the upper branch and predicted it would become law by June if the legislative schedule does not interfere.

The bill, which merges the normal and surtax into a single tax, was approved by members of the house committee Saturday. Only the formality of introduction remained.

Abolishes Victory Tax

Under the legislation, which also abolishes the victory tax, persons earning up to $5,000 gross and receiving not more than $100 from sources not subject to payroll withholding may file only a copy of their tax withholding receipt. Dependents and "other income" if any will merely be listed on the reverse side of the receipt.

The signed receipts then will be mailed to the local tax collector without any payment. Upon calculation of the tax, the taxpayer will either be billed for additional payment or receive a refund check. It is this group which comprises the estimated thirty million taxpayers.

Ten million others, the committee says, will be able to use a simple table showing their entire tax. The remaining 10 million taxpayers may report in more detail on a "simpler form" than the present one.

The bill revises personal exemptions to $500 for single person, $1,000 for married couples and $500 for each dependent. Persons with incomes up to $5,000 have a flat deduction allowance of 10 percent. Above $5,000 the allowance is $500 but larger deductions may be taken by listing them.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM

Ordinarily a quiet day in the court house Saturday was unusually quiet. There just wasn't anything doing. But the calm was that before the storm. On Tuesday the place will be overrun with people active in the primary election and all through Tuesday night the office of William A. Eakin, chief clerk, will be open to receive returns and pay off election boards.

As soon as the returns are tabulated, the boards send the returns in to the court house. All during the day judges W. Walter Braham and John G. Lamoree will be available from seven in the morning until 9 at night to settle any election arguments. County Treasurer Frank W. Hill and County Controller Andrew M. Dadds will be on the job paying the election board officials for the services during the day.

Actor Errol Flynn Innocent Bystander

Gets Egg Shampoo During Brawl
At Hollywood Mocambo
Yesterday

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—(INS)—Actor Errol Flynn prefers his shampoos at a barber shop but he had no choice in the matter of an egg shampoo administered during a brawl at the Mocambo yesterday. The actor, who has been on the receiving end of punches at quite a few parties and night clubs, was an innocent bystander this time.

It all happened when Toby Tuttle, black-haired and statesque eastern showgirl, and a dame who was hustled out of the back door before her identity could be learned mixed in a brief fight following a chance remark.

Miss Tuttle said she was clawed and bitten by her unidentified assailant. She left, she said without explaining why, that Flynn should have helped her out of her difficult ties and when he didn't but just sat there at his table like a gentleman it made her angry.

It made her so angry she declared, that she grabbed an egg from a passing waiter's tray, broke it on the star's head and rubbed it in a bit.

Waiters quickly interceded and ended the shampoo, also showing Miss Tuttle out of the front door.

Admiral King Reports On War

Says "Encirclement Of Germany Is In Sight," But Hard Fighting Ahead

PACIFIC FLEET IS UNCHALLENGED

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet declared today that the "encirclement of Germany is in sight," and asserted that American forces now are strong enough in the Pacific to threaten attack on the Marianas, the Carolines and the Kuriles.

The statements were made by the fleet chief in a 50,000-word report on the war to Secretary of the Navy Knox. It was King's first detailed report covering naval action in all theaters since he took over a command-in-chief.

"The German submarine fleet has been reduced from a menace to a problem," King said. "The encirclement of Germany is in sight. The situation in the European theater is increasingly desperate for the Axis."

Move Unchallenged
In the Pacific King said that American fleets now move "unchallenged."

In his summary King said "we can look back with satisfaction on the progress of the war to date, and with just pride in the part played therein by the United States."

"The German structure of satellite states is crumbling," the admiral continued. "Italy has fallen and is a battlefield in which 20 German divisions are taking heavy punishment. Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland are weakening. The Balkans are aflame with guerrilla war, and other occupied countries await only the signal."

He warned that both in Europe and in the Pacific long roads still lie ahead for the Allies.

"But we are now fully entered on those roads, fortified with unity, power, and experience, imbued with confidence and determined to travel far and fast to victory," he added.

Dark Outlook For Japan
"Japan will not be directly under attack as Germany is now, until the citadel area of that empire, island and continental, is under our threat or control, but the current and prospective circumstances in the Pacific theater present a situation which must be as dark and threatening to Japan as it is full of promise to us."

In discussing the situation prior to and immediately after the outbreak of war, King said that even if the initial enemy attack had failed the fleet would have been unable to go to the rescue of American and Filipino troops in the Philippines.

"The sudden treacherous attack by Japan which resulted in heavy losses to us, made our unfavorable strategic position at the outbreak of war even worse than we had anticipated," King explained.

"Had we not suffered those losses, however, our fleet could not have proceeded to Manila as many people supposed, and there relieved our hard pressed forces. Such an undertaking at that time, with the means at hand to carry it out and support it, would have been disastrous."

Turning Point
King said the turning point in the Pacific war came after the battle of Midway, in which American sea and air forces trapped a powerful enemy armada heading for that island outpost.

"The battle of Midway was the first decisive defeat suffered by the Japanese navy in 450 years," King said. "Furthermore, it put an end to the long period of Japanese offensive action, and restored the balance of naval power in the Pacific."

In discussing the Allied defeat in the night sea battle off Guadalcanal the night following the United States invasion, King said planning was "not up to the usual thorough standards," and that the Allied ships were surprised because the leaders "lacked experience."

"The surprise, which was the immediate cause of the defeat, was the result of a combination of circumstances," King said.

"Generally speaking, however, we were surprised because we lacked experience. Needless to say, the lessons learned were fully taken into account."

Garden Notes

Should the weather suddenly become cold or windy, it is wise to remove flats containing Victory seedlings from the vicinity of a window at night, or at least place a newspaper between the flats and the window pane as protection against cold.

Seeds of tomatoes, peppers, corn, beans, melons and cucumbers are likely to be wasted if planted before warm weather is really established, since they will rot in cold, damp ground.

Do not sow fine or lightweight seeds in a high wind. Such seeds are apt to be scattered in the process and this will make cultivation of the plants difficult since the rows will not be orderly.

Seeds planted outdoors must be covered with fine soil free of lumps, stones or pieces of wood. The soil should be firmed down about the seeds to speed germination.

Thinning is absolutely essential for satisfactory results in the Victory garden. Leaf lettuce may be thinned by pulling young plants for table use, but this should be done rapidly enough to keep pace with the growth of the remaining plants.

If seedlings show signs of becoming spindly, try growing them in a cooler temperature and giving them less water. Another method of preventing spindly growth is to pinch the plants back to three or four leaves to induce branching and the growth of stocky plants.

Tells Rotarians Foreign Policy Needed In War

War Correspondent Urges
Formation Of Allied
Council On Problems

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 24.—Emphasizing the need for much post war planning by Rotarians and all citizens, Gilbert Cant, correspondent and war editor of New York, declared, "The war is going to be a very difficult one to fight, unless we know what we are fighting for." Cant was the principal speaker at the 7th annual conference of Rotary International, 175th district, which met in an all-day session at Westminster College here on Saturday.

Recently returned from a tour of the Pacific battle fronts, the speaker said there seemed to be no American plan for the disposition of the Jap Mandated Islands in the Pacific after the war. He urged immediate formation of a United Nations council or executive committee to handle problems of this type. Other critical problems of United Nations concern are: The Russo-Polish boundary, The Arab-Jap-Jerusalem dispute, and the British-Chinese question at Hong Kong, he pointed out.

"It will not make any difference in the broad outline of our foreign policy, who is elected president in the next election, but it will make a difference in the execution of that policy," the correspondent predicted. "As for Russia, there is no question that as long as Stalin lives, he will be head man there," he said.

More than 375 representatives of 34 Northwestern Pennsylvania clubs participated in the day-long sessions. Dr. Morgan Barnes, of Grove City, was named governor of the 16th district, succeeding Allan J. Scully, of Sheffield, Pa.

The Rotarians accepted the invitation of the Slippery Rock Rotary Club to meet there in 1945.

PRICE CONTROL REVISION URGED

lations from $5,000 to $50,000. The latter was aimed at criminal "black market" operations.

4. Ban the OPA's "highest price line" regulation under which retailers cannot offer for sale merchandise of higher quality or price than that offered at a previous base date.

5. Specify OPA rent control authority, including elimination of controls in areas where no longer needed, adjustment of "unfair" rent fixing, and delegation of power to regional directors.

Minority Report

Two members of the committee filed a minority report opposing a merging of the price control and stabilization acts into one measure because it would mean "a new adjustment period" and charging that some of the majority proposals "contain every likelihood for upsetting existing stabilization."

The "minority" members—Reps. Delaney (D) N. Y., and Voorhis (D) Calif.—endorsed as separate amendments the proposals for court review, elimination of treble damages or authorized penalties, and WLB designation of bargaining agents.

The majority stated: "The administration of price control... has been far from perfect... and although in recent months under the guidance of the present administrator there has been much improvement in personnel and in the administration of the law there is still room for further improvement."

"The administration of the price control act is not alone to blame for public dissatisfaction. The law itself is faulty in many respects." The minority report said certain of the majority proposals would leave the OPA administrator no "practical alternative except to bring about a general lifting of ceiling prices."

HUGE AIR BLITZ UPON NAZIS NOW IN EIGHTH DAY

the United States 8th and 9th Air Forces participated in the heavy attack.

Nazi propaganda broadcasts reported simultaneous Allied assaults on targets in Rumania, saying that "violent air combats" had occurred over southeastern Europe.

DNB claimed that "strong forces" of German fighters engaged the American bombers "as soon as they reached the frontiers of the Reich and throughout their whole flight remained in contact with them."

Move In Waves

The heavy bomber, coastal observers reported, went out in waves upon the return of British night bombers from assaults on a signal equipment depot in Belgium and Mannheim, Germany, which had been hit only 24 hours before.

The German radio announced at 12:30 p. m. London time (6:30 a. m. EWT) that strong Allied bomber formations were approaching southern western Germany while other formations already were over western Germany.

An International News Service observer at Folkestone, England, said that a large force of aircraft flew out in the direction of France between Calais and Cap Gris Nez, because clouds could not be seen from the coast but from the roar of motors it appeared that both bombers and fighters were in the formations.

The signal equipment depot blasted by the RAF was located at Villvorde, six miles northeast of Brussels.

Planes of the bomber command also engaged in mine laying operations, the communique said.

Mannheim Bombed

The assault on the Rhine-land industrial city of Mannheim was carried out by speedy Mosquito bombers.

The air ministry said only six of its craft were missing from the night operations.

Radio Budapest said "nuisance raids" were made against the Hungarian capital and a number of other Hungarian communities, indicating possible new assaults by Mediterranean based bombers.

Reports of night operations came after a seventh successive day in the record Anglo-American bombardment to cripple the German war effort and communications in advance of a land invasion.

By day American and British craft made approximately 2,200 sorties against western Europe while the total probably was increased to nearly 3,000 by heavy Mediterranean based bombers on Wiener-Neustadt, Austria.

Nazi airfields and railway lines were the principal targets in widespread assaults against objectives in France, Germany, Holland and Belgium.

During Saturday night heavy RAF blows were loosed against Brunswick and Düsseldorf, Germany, and the Laon railway yards in northern France, while Mosquitoes peppered Mannheim.

STATE CANDIDATES WILL BE NAMED AT PRIMARY TUESDAY

publican leaders ignored preferential balloting, which merely indicated the party's wishes, but scattered "write in" votes were anticipated.

U. S. Sen. James J. Davis of Pittsburgh, Republican, and Cong. Francis J. Meyers of Philadelphia, Democrat, were unopposed in the senatorial contest. Davis, secretary of labor for three presidents, is seeking a fourth term with the endorsement of the G. O. P. organization.

Incumbent Supreme Court Justice Howard W. Hughes of Washington, Republican, and Federal Judge Charles A. Jones of Pittsburgh, Democrat, also were unopposed in primary voting for the state's highest tribunal.

Superior Court

The contest between Judge Arthur H. Jones of Plymouth, former Republican governor, and Judge Chester H. Rhodes of Stroudsburg, Democrat, for the nominations of both major parties sparked the superior court contest.

The search for a cross party seeking 10-year terms, but there were no indications that organization balloting would be split. The other superior court candidates are outgoing Auditor General F. Clair Ross of Butler, Democrat, and Army Strong County Common Pleas Judge J. Frank Graff, of Kittanning, Republican.

The battle for the Democratic auditor general's nomination, between State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner of Wilkes-Barre, endorsed by the state committee, and John P. Breslin of Summit Hill, independent, promised to add to the interest in primary balloting.

Breslin, Ross' executive assistant, has charged his opponent with being a life-long Republican prior to his election to the fiscal office in 1940. Wagner, who has conducted a quiet campaign, was reported to have the support of the powerful Philadelphia and Allegheny county organizations.

State Sen. G. Harold Watkins of Frackville, is unopposed on the G. O. P. slate for auditor general.

Both parties slated only one candidate for the state treasurer's post. They were State Philadelphia City Treasurer Edgar W. Baird Jr., Republican, and Third Assistant Postmaster General Ramsey S. Black of Harrisburg, Democrat.

rounded by Soviet forces which destroyed more than a battalion of the Germans as well as 15 armored units.

Tank Battles Flare

Farther to the south, tank battles flared southeast of Stanislaw where Russian armored forces burned or disabled at least a dozen attacking Nazi panzers which were providing cover for enemy infantry.

"The enemy infantry, having deprived of its tank cover, withdrew, leaving on the battlefield many killed and wounded," added the official bulletin.

It was on this front that the Russians stepped up their air blows against the enemy. Stormovik dive-bombers went into action, delivering a "heavy" blow against enemy troop concentrations and destroying several tanks and 60 trucks laden with military equipment.

Meantime in the Crimea the siege of Sevastopol continued. Although the communique made no mention of ground action against the thoroughly-blockaded naval base, the supplement told of several successful air raids on air installations in German hands. In these actions 35 Nazi planes were destroyed, 19 when caught on the airfield and the others falling equally to Soviet airmen and anti-aircraft gunners.

AMERICANS IN INVASION FORCE ARE PREPARED

Hitler and his high command, and they are banking on it to undermine the invasion by inflicting huge casualties.

Ready For Combat

But after a swing through many second-front training areas, this correspondent would say everyone of these Yanks seen in combat-ready as hard as nails, and can dish it out. They can kill faster and more expertly than Hitler's "blitz" soldiers which I saw swishing thru Poland and France.

On the basis of men, material, weapons and facilities over here, it is safe to predict that the combined armies can uncoil such stunning and sustained striking power that the Wehrmacht's advantage in its formidable fortification system will rapidly be overcome.

Considering everything from the visual evidence, there is no reason to doubt that our armies will smash through the beachheads and roll the Wehrmacht from the Atlantic wall into the open and compel it to fight showdown battles on the 1917 Somme scale.

Many Bloody Weeks

Many bloody weeks may elapse before that showdown stage is reached. But when it comes the allied opportunity will come to move in for the kill.

To make the second-front onslaught the biggest thing ever seen, allied leaders in Britain have collected the most gigantic invasion stocks in weapons and materiel ever assembled in military history. They are miles of country lanes throughout England and Ireland being bristled with guns and tanks of every type—and more ammunition dumps than haystacks.

I saw the German army's supplies stacked for 75 miles along French highways in 1940—but it was little more than was visible in a 20-mile drive around one of our general invasion supply depots.

It is all very reassuring to the Yanks themselves who have begun sweating blood getting all set and in knowing how to make the most of the fighting machines on hand.

As far as is obvious, it is the sloping of the Wehrmacht wide open to bust the Wehrmacht wide open.

On the other hand, there is no American general or G. I. kidding himself that the second front will be a walk-over—they are in deadly earnest and grimly bent on D-day's near. And they will hit the beaches, shooting from the hips.

YANKS SURPRISE
JAPS IN LANDINGS
IN NEW GUINEA

As a result of their lack of alertness, the last few square miles of Netherlands empire territory to be restored since the enemy over all over the southwestern Pacific in the opening, history-loaded weeks of 1942.

By GEORGE LAIT

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, In New Guinea, April 24.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur took a great stride today in his promise to reclaim the Philippines through the surprise landing of American troops along a 150-mile stretch of the northern New Guinea coast.

United States amphibious forces, under protective guns of warships of the U. S. Pacific fleet and a formidable air cover, stormed ashore at three points in a drive which resulted in seizure of the Humboldt Bay area at Hollandia, 500 miles west of Allied positions at Saidor and approximately 1,000 miles from the Philippines.

The grand-scale invasion, largest operation of its kind to date in the Southwest Pacific, was directed personally by Gen. MacArthur, who journeyed to the scene of operations aboard a U. S. cruiser.

The landings, estimated to total 60,000 men and increased the number of Japanese troops isolated throughout the New Guinea, New Britain and Solomon Islands area to 140,000.

The operation marked the first direct thrust into Jap-occupied Netherlands East Indies territory since Hollandia lies in the area of Dutch New Guinea, the invasion front stretches eastward along the coast for 150 miles to Aitape, in Australian New Guinea.

The Yank ground forces went ashore at Aitape, Hollandia and Tanahmerah Bay. Naval guns of Pacific fleet warships and planes from aircraft carriers neutralized the landing areas before the American troops put ashore.

Japs Knocked Off Guard

Gen. MacArthur declared that the Japs had been completely off guard by recent feints towards Makin and Wewak, between Aitape and Saidor to the east, and had concentrated most of their forces in the Madang-Wewak area. The Japs now are hemmed in by Allied troops on both flanks.

Speaking of the overall picture of the Jap plight in the southwest Pacific, the four-star general said: "Their situation reverses Bataan."

Gen. MacArthur said that the initial landings were effected with slight losses to the Americans.

With the Humboldt Bay area already in American hands, the invading troops pushed forward to secure local airfields. Seizure of air strips will put American long-range bombers in position for assaults on the Philippines bases established by the Japs.

Strong forces of American cruisers and destroyers blasted the beach areas of the invasion coast for an hour before dive-bombers and fighters went in to strafe Japanese gun positions and other installations in advance of the landing.

Waves of infantry then swarmed ashore from every type landing craft which had been assembled from Pacific area.

The actual landings got under way at dawn Saturday, marking the first time since March, 1942, that Allied soldiers set foot on former Dutch territory.

Spastic paralysis is more devastating in its crippling effects than infantile paralysis, with just as many victims.

vond comprehension. All Japanese garrisons just without the zone of the southwest operations, one would suppose must realize their ever-increasing danger as the area of our airfields is continuously extended.

The recent bombings of Hollandia should have been in themselves a warning to the Nipponese that an assault against them was about to take place.

Aitape Also Taken

Aitape, 120 miles east of Hollandia, and its airfield has also been captured by American troops. More than a year ago Gen. MacArthur publicly stated that the Japanese had amassed a great tactical reserve at Hollandia. He then gave as the reason that it was out of range of continuing Allied heavy bomber attacks. Now that situation is finished and very shortly we will see all of the remaining Japanese troops on western and northern New Guinea in the same trapped condition.

Gen. MacArthur's assault westward on the island of New Guinea shows the pattern of fighting in the central and southwest Pacific areas. It would seem to the observer on the outside that great naval task forces may at this time sail very close to the Japanese main positions—meaning the Dutch East Indies, the Malayan peninsula and the Philippines.

To date such strong Japanese naval and land-based air opposition has been missing that it would be quite possible for a great Allied amphibious expedition to be started from the Marshall Islands, move due westward through the Carolines and Palau to the Philippines.

Gen. MacArthur, by moving westward through New Guinea, then jumping to Celebes or Borneo, and thence due north to Mindanao—southernmost island of the Philippines—now within bombing range of Hollandia, would have a route of return to his ultimate goal which could be supported almost the entire way by land-based planes and accomplished by his leap-frog tactics.

The weight of blood is one-eighth that of the whole body.

Damage of around $125 was reported, which is said to be covered by insurance.

At 11:55 p. m. Sunday, an alarm from Box 64 summoned firemen to the home of William Sallmen, of 816 Pulaski street, where a short circuit had occurred in an extension cord leading to the outside of the house. The damage was estimated at $5.

Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, firemen were called to the downtown district for an auto fire, no action being required. It was found that the fan belt of an auto owned by Roy Greaves, of Ellwood City was slipping, and caught fire.

ABOUT OUR DAD

We've been asked about our dad. What kind of a Congressman would he make? Well we don't know, but we do know what kind of a dad he is. We think we're typical American boys. We've given him all the problems any other dad has ever had—that's the real test we think, and that's when our dad measured up to everything a son could expect—giving each and every detail good sound judgment mixed with reasonable generosity. We don't mean to say that he can't meter out punishment—he can.

We've known him for this great long time as a real American citizen and staunch Republican of Christian faith. We can truthfully say he thrives on hard work whether it be physical or mental.

We know him to be a champion of justice and fair play—that he is clean and decent in every sense of the words—that he holds sacred the principals of Washington, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and the Constitution of our great Country.

This is our dad—needless to say we're really proud of him. If he makes half as good a Congressman as a dad, —we believe he will be one of the best representatives of the people, of our time.

Sincerely Submitted,

Estimate 150 Tons Of Paper Collected Here

More than doubling the first waste paper collection, the collection of Saturday in New Castle was a success, an estimated 150 tons of paper being loaded into six box cars on the Baltimore and Ohio tracks on South Mill street. One huge box car was loaded entirely with magazines, which are the cream of the waste paper crop. The other five contained newspapers, mixed loads and one car was almost filled with cardboard cartons and paper bags.

Ideal weather greeted Chairman Joseph Hartman and his crew of assistants and the cooperation given him was super. Trucks were furnished through the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and the generosity of merchants. Walter J. McCormick and Edward Fee acted as truckmasters. Industries sent men to assist in the loading, and the Boy and Girl Scouts accompanied every truck to pick up the loads.

The six box cars loaded with waste paper will be shipped to processing mills and will be a valuable addition to the war effort. The armed services need containers badly and out of the 150 tons furnished by New Castle Saturday will come thousands of containers for arms, ammunition.

A number of adjoining townships joined the paper collection and the trucks of the state highway picked up the loads in the township. The collection started before noon and all afternoon trucks by the dozen were lined up at the cars awaiting disposal.

Another paper collection will be held within a reasonably short time, according to Ross D. Rosenberger, county salvage chairman and householder, are asked to start saving their waste papers, magazines and box board containers now. The paper is needed.

Commando Kelly At Washington, D. C.

Joint News Conference Is Held At Washington With Indian
Hero

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(INS)—Tech Sgt. Charles E. "Commando" Kelly, who won the congressional medal of honor for killing 40 Germans during the fighting at Salerno, Italy, today declared that he "wasn't scared 'till it was all over." Then he slyly added: "I had a lot of fun doing it."

Kelly, on a furlough from the Italian front to visit his ailing mother in Pittsburgh, Pa., held a joint news conference at the war department with Lieut. Ernest Childers, full-blooded Oklahoma Indian who also won the medal of honor for bravery in Italy.

SAMUEL G. NEFF
OF ELLWOOD CITY

Today, and in the coming post-war years, as never before, the American people demand a truly aggressive, and progressively liberal-minded Congress; a Congress representative of the workers, and working farmers, cognizant of these workers' problems, and since in its efforts to alleviate these problems in keeping with democratic principles.

The returning service men are going to expect, yes, demand a government and representation predicated upon the principles of democracy for which they fought and their comrades died.

I do not believe the working people—the small income groups of Pennsylvania's 25th Congressional District, are receiving this kind of representation in Congress today; nor do I believe they have been represented to their best interests for the past three years.

I believe that the people of the 25th District favor legislation limiting wartime salaries to $25,000, of favoring legislation designed to support incentive payments to farmers, to extend the Rural Electrification Program.

I believe they favored the presidential veto of the Smith-Connally Bill.

In each of the four preceding specific examples, the present representative of the 25th District voted in negative, and thereby promoted the defeat of each of these favored bills.

The people of this 25th Congressional District of Pennsylvania are deserving of representation consistent with a governmental policy OF THE PEOPLE? BY THE PEOPLE? and FOR THE PEOPLE.

Believing as I do that a government OF THE PEOPLE, whose prime incentive is one of social progress, and an equitable solution of the common man's problems is the desire of the vast majority of Americans, I here humbly and sincerely submit my candidacy for Congress from the 25th Congressional District of Pennsylvania, and pledge, if elected, the furtherance of these basic American ideals.

Army Beckons Spud Chandler Yankee Hurler

Ace Hurler's Departure
Adds To Worries Of Sick Joe McCarthy

BROWNS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, April 24.—These are the times that try the New York Yankees' souls. With the Yankees barely holding their own at a 500 pace in the won-and-lost column; with Manager Joe McCarthy ailing and temporarily retired to his farm; the Yankees today are in possession of a checkered letter addressed to star pitcher, Spud Chandler and beginning: "Greetings."

It was an invitation to Spud to drop into the induction center next Friday and it means the Yankees now have a painfully apparent hole in their pitching staff left by a man they cannot possibly hope to replace. Spud, 20-game winner last year and the most valuable pitcher in the majors, was ordered to report to Moultrie, Ga., for entrance into limited service and will leave for Moultrie next Thursday.

Browns Drub White Sox
While McCarthy mopes over his troubles, Mid-West teams contemplate their fate. Rain has been hitting frequently at the schedule and four games yesterday were postponed. Red Sox-Athletics; Senators-Yankees; Giants-Dodgers and Reds-Pirates. The St. Louis Browns, however, were in a jolly mood after doubling the White Sox in both ends of a double-header, 5 to 2 and 4 to 3.

The Browns have yet to be defeated and the sweep of the twin bill gave them six straight killings. In the first game, Jack Kramer won his second game of the season, scattering eight hits along the route and slamming out a homer for his own cause. Oval Grove held the Browns to five hits in the second game but a two-run rally in the eighth finished the White Sox.

Tigers Finally Win
The Tigers snapped out of their haze to take their first 1944 victory over the Cleveland Indians, 6 to 2 and 4 to 3. Roy Cullenbine gave the Tigers the second game when he misjudged Catcher Hack Miller's drive then fell on his face in an attempt to field the ball. It was an inside-the-park homer, good for three runs.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals took over the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 3 and 5 to 4, to run the Cubs' string of losses to five. Pitching in the first game was not brilliant, but was offset by heavy hitting. Max Lanier allowed 12 safeties, but his teammates rapped three Cub hurlers for 15 hits.

Tobin Beats Pletcher
In the nightcap, a run scored in the first inning provided the margin of victory for the Cards. Both teams drove in four runs in one inning, the Cubs in the second and the Cards in the sixth. George Munger was credited with the victory and Ed Hanyewski charged with the loss.

The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies split a twin bill, the Braves winning the first game, 5 to 0, and the Phillies the second, 3 to 0. Jim Tobin pitched the best game in the entire day's schedule, a near-no-hitter that was marred only by Rookie Moon Mullin's sixth-inning single. At Greenbaum, the Boston Braves in the nightcap with six scattered hits and fanned nine batters.

Occupy Likely To Prove 'Dark Horse'

Son Of Bulldog, Regarded As Sprinter, Unsited To Long Route

LEGS 'FIRED' TO STRENGTHEN CARDS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 24.—Occupying leading money-earner among two-year-olds last year, "Bulldog" may be the dark horse of the Kentucky Derby to be run at Churchill Downs on May 6. He hasn't enjoyed the winter book favoritism that might be expected of a colt that has whipped all the opposition slated to enter the classic mile-and-a-quarter run to be contested here for 70th time.

The reason: He is known as a "Bulldog," which means he is a son of Bulldog, whose offspring have come to be regarded mostly as sprinters and unsited to the long route.

May Not Go To Past
There still is some doubt as to whether "Bulldog" will go to the post. His legs were fired after last year's campaign to strengthen the cords and it can be brought around in time for the Derby he should be better able to stand up for the gruelling distance under the 126-pound impost. However, the fact that he is a Bulldog has caused many to pass him up in the winter books.

Just how much fact and how much fancy is involved in the theory against Bulldogs going a distance is a moot point. They often have been beaten over a route, but the records reveal that in most cases they were mingling with truly great performers or with horses known to be strictly routers.

How Idea Started
The prejudice against Bulldogs was sated by Bull Lea and Our Boots. The former won the mile and an eight Widener in 1938 and looked like a Derby winner, but he was off poorly and never figured. Our Boots finished up his three-year-old campaign rated superior even to Whirlaway and was established as the favorite for the 1941 Derby.

Our Boots beat Whirlaway at a mile and an eighth in the Blue Grass stakes just prior to the Derby. (Continued On Page Fifteen)

Thumb Injury Proves 'Aid' To Leo Durocher

Painful Yes, But Not So
Severe As Criticism
From Fans

DOESN'T HAVE TO FULFILL ACTIVE ROLE

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 24.—(INS)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, shed no noticeable tears when he recently sustained a compound fracture of the right thumb. Although a painful injury such as this is never hoped for by any player, it came at a propitious time for Leo because it released him from a very worrisome and far from exhilarating duty: active service as a player.

It was very apparent that Leo did not want to play in 1944, and it was equally as apparent in 1943. In the early days of last season, if you remember, Leo was injected into the line-up to bolster up the already draft-riddled infield of the Dodgers. The cracks and grunts given off by Leo's aging frame could be heard in the depths of the Ebbets Field bleachers. He crawled pitifully after bunts, let grounders get past him and in general looked the part of a none-too-young manager inserted in the line-up under pressure of the draft, which was a true picture of Leo at the time.

Called a Has Been
For the first time in his career as a player, Durocher heard himself described as "old" and "inadequate." Few athletes can take this sort of stuff, especially performers built like Durocher, and older ball players seem to develop a thickness of hide and toughness of vision which permits them to stand the barbs of harsh criticism. But not Durocher. It easily can be imagined that Leo would not be covered by Dodge's president Branch Rickey into playing again.

Leo Sensitive
Durocher is no man's fool. He is quick-witted, conscientious, alert and reasonably often unreasonably sensitive. He is the sort of player who is bristling enough to know when his number is up as an active performer, and who has enough of the actor in him to have an active dislike for the ignoble performance of the enfeebled.

It was with a definite reaction, then, that Durocher heard hints from Rickey this winter that he might again take to the field. Leo was in Florida when these rumors first emanated from the Brooklyn office, and sports writers who questioned Durocher on this touchy subject heard a succession of "wells," "ifs," "buts," and "maybes." Leo wasn't committing himself, as much as he liked and took gusto to obtain his renewed contract with Brooklyn.

Said He Might Play
When cornered by reporters upon arriving at the Dodgers' Bear Mountain, N. Y., training base, Durocher caved in slightly and said he might play but he had something wrong with his right elbow. "I guess," he called them. They were bone chips in the joint which impeded the whip-like action of his good throwing arm.

Brother Rickey took the news with a slight tilt of his cigar and an almost inaudible grunt. Being the most stubborn man in baseball with the possible exception of Sam Rice, Rickey just let it slide and seemed to forget all about Leo's acorns. The result was that Leo played ball, or tried to.

Playing Days Over
Sunday, April 9, was a big day in Durocher's life as events subsequently proved. The Dodgers were to play the Boston Red Sox in an exhibition contest at Ebbets Field. Patching up his ankle, Durocher put outfielder Dixie Walker on third, rookie (Moosey) Mauch as short and himself at second.

In the third inning, a sharp grounder was cracked at Moosey, who bobbed it a moment then made a swift but fumbled throw to second. Durocher's bare hand flashed out, the ball made direct contact with the thumb, and Durocher's playing days were over.

Leo shook his hand up and down with pain for a while but he failed to see even one tear, not even one crocodile tear, coursing down Leo's weather-roughened cheeks. It was an injury that came at precisely the right moment.

Present Week To Determine Derby Field

Stir Up, Eight To Five
Choice, Being Shipped To Track In Kentucky

PUKKA GIN, STYMIE, IN CHESAPEAKE EVENT

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 24.—By the end of this week the field for the Kentucky Derby, to be run at Louisville on Saturday of next week, will be practically settled up to the point of the usual few late scratches from the $75,000 event. A few mid-week races and the Chesapeake stakes at Pimlico next Saturday just about determine which of the three-year-olds will be given a crack at the biggest purse of these times.

For Stir Up, the Greentree stable's stand-out 8 to 5 choice to win the Kentucky Derby, which was shipped tomorrow to Kentucky. Such previous hopefuls as Bel Reigh, Olympic Zenith and Fox Lane have been definitely declared out of the Derby by virtue of their showings Saturday in the two-division Wood Memorial, which was won by Stir Up and George D. Widener's Lucky Draw.

Entries Depend Upon Race
There is a doubtful starter in the Derby, Owner Widener had never entered a colt in the big event, and it undecided on his current Standard-Bearer, which won handily Saturday after a long lay-off. Whether Col. Cornelius V. Whitely's Pukka Gin will be entered will be determined by what he shows in the Chesapeake. The best he could do in the first division of the Wood was fourth place behind Stir Up, Stymie and Autocrat.

Besides Pukka Gin, the erstwhile winter book Derby favorite, others in a field of a dozen or so expected to go in the Chesapeake include Stymie, Broad Gin, Director J. E. and Pensive.

Looked Good In Finish
The latter won a mile and 70 yard race last Saturday at Pimlico in 1:44 and looked good finishing four lengths in front with the result that many are swinging over to this Ben-Jones-trained Calumet star as a good stout contender for the Derby. What he does in the Chesapeake will determine his chances, for in there he will be running with some competition.

He currently is 10 to 1 one in the winter book, the odds now carried by Pukka Gin, which opened the book at 4 to 1 but with two straight defeats has dropped well out of favoritism, behind Stir Up at 8 to 5 and Challenge Men, the Arkansas Derby winner, 5 to 1; Lucky Draw, 8 to 1; the Pukka Gin and Pensive, followed by Stymie and Aloha, among others, at 20 to 1.

Stir Up's victory in the Wood was spectacular and gained him still more support for the Derby. His margin under a perfect hide by Eddie Aracore was a good three lengths over Stymie, which was coming toward the finish, leading to the belief that he might be a distinct threat in the mile and a quarter derby, contrasted with the mile and a sixteenth Wood. Autocrat showed little in finishing third. Stir Up's time was a good 1:44-1/5.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Arthur Reese, one of The News' sports staff came to light today with an interesting item. It concerns Brinley Whiteside, former pitcher for the local Ramblers who is now a Seaboard 2 C with the navy in the South Pacific. According to the item Whiteside recently played on C division team against the Officers team of the ship on which Whitesides serves. The game went 16 innings, the Officers winning, six to five. However, the feature is that, Whiteside a pitcher, caught. He must have done a swell job of catching for 16 frames. Incidentally, in his letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Whiteside, 1006 East Washington street, the signalman reports that, recently U.S. movie stars put on a show and it was the first time in six months that Whiteside had seen a white woman.

Two national boxing association championships changed hands since the last quarterly ratings. Zurita replaced Sammy Angott as lightweight king, and Sal Bartolo of Boston succeeded Phil Terranova as featherweight ruler. Abe Green, president, has predicted that Bartolo would be matched with Willie Pop to settle the featherweight dispute. Pop is recognized as 125-pound boss in New York.

Here are the quarterly divisional champions listed first, followed by "logical" contenders:
Heavyweight, Joe Louis, Billy Conn.
Light heavyweight, Gus Lesnevich, Freddie Mills.
Middleweight, Tony Zale, George Abrams, Jake LaMotta.

Welterweight, Freddie Cochrane, Ray Robinson, Jackie Wilson.
Lightweight, Juan Zurita, Sammy Angott, Bob Montgomery, Beau Jack, Bobby Ruffin.
Featherweight, Sal Bartolo, Willie Pop, Chaiky Wright.
Bantamweights, Manuel Ortiz, Rush Dalma, Ernesto Aguilar.
Flyweight, Jackie Patterson, Peter Kane.

Jack And 'Mont' Ring Feud Has Abe In Lather

NBA Head Hopes Lightweight Title Plight
May Be Clarified

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 24.—President Abe J. Greene of the National Boxing Association has got himself all agitated again.

In normal times, President Greene's current squawk in behalf of a match to settle the disputed lightweight championship would be a praiseworthy and sagacious thing from every standpoint. There positively shouldn't be two champions, as we have now, and it is about time that Bob Montgomery, the New York commission title-holder, and Beau Jack quit handing the tit-back and forth and let Juan Zurita, the National Boxing Association's crown-wearer, figure in the titular proceedings around here.

Not Normal Times
However, there aren't normal times even in boxing, whose normalcy is bewildering at best, and President Greene seems to be wasting a considerable amount of well-intended hollering on what may be an utterly impractical enterprise. Meaning, Montgomery and Beau Jack both are in the service to all intents and purposes by this time and thus will be excusably detained from the ring for an indefinite period.

Moreover, they not only other two sterling gladiators can be brought together in Madison Square Garden for at least five or six weeks unless they can figure out a way to stage such an encounter in the midst of the circus currently holding forth in the local arena. When it gets out of there, Lee Savold and Joe Baki are to take over in a heavyweight tussle on May 26 by way of setting boxing under way again.

Too Much Jack Vs 'Mont'
Nobody will disagree with President Greene that there has been entirely too much of this Montgomery-Beau Jack enacting. They have met three times and new faces would be a welcome sight.

But then even if Montgomery can defend his title despite his having passed for the service and even if the Beau Jack match which is being talked about is not staged how can Zurita qualify for a crack at Montgomery when he couldn't and didn't whip Beau Jack in his first, and only eastern appearance.
It was one of the most successful seasons of the Industrial league and all of the spokesmen were highly praiseworthy concerning the sportsmanship that prevailed throughout the season.

Should Give Zurita Chance
Twif say this: I would much prefer to see Zurita in there with Montgomery trying to clear up the lightweight middle than to watch Beau Jack and Montgomery again. The winner could meet Beau Jack at some more or less distant date and everybody would be happy. Such an arrangement would defer Montgomery and Beau Jack for the present.

But, as was pointed out before, what makes anybody think Montgomery and Beau Jack will be available for a prize fight anytime soon? Uncle Whiskers is less lax about these things now than he used to be. The G. I. Joe is not popping in and out of fight arenas at the whim of their managers as they used to.

In any case all this comes under the heading of things not to worry too much about.

STRAWBERRY PLANTS NEED CARE IN SPRING

Did you place straw mulch on your strawberry patch last fall? If so, much of its value depends on proper management this spring.

Use of mulch retards early spring growth, delaying blooming and reducing the probability of loss from spring frosts. If a delay in blooming is desired, the mulch should be left in place, until periodic inspection reveals that growth is taking place beneath it. This new growth will be white or yellow in appearance, and is a sure sign that removal of the mulch cannot be further delayed with safety.

A common error in taking mulch to a place between the rows is removal of all material from the plants. Some straw should be left on the plants to protect the berries from dirt. It also helps smother weeds and retain moisture. New leaves and flower stalks will grow through considerable straw if loosened at this time and scattered over the plants.

Specialists at the Pennsylvania State College recommended the practice of piling the straw between the rows. In this manner, any threats from frosts when the plants are in bloom can be avoided by merely recovering the plants. Frequently there is not enough of this material and additional fresh straw must be added to provide adequate covering to protect the flowers for several days until the cold wave passes.

PRESSING NEEDS LIGHT TOUCH AND RIGHT HEAT

Carefully pressed garments make a great contribution to that well-groomed appearance which every woman desires. However, too frequent pressing or doing it incorrectly may take the life out of the fabric.

Some fabrics wrinkle more easily than others, depending upon the fiber and the weave. Selecting fabrics that do not wrinkle easily will reduce the amount of pressing needed.

Garments need a rest. Two dresses worn alternately will last longer than if each one is worn constantly. Usually wrinkles will disappear if the garment is hung up carefully overnight. Persistent wrinkles in some fabrics sometimes can be removed if the garment is hung in the bathroom over steam for a few minutes, then drying the dress well before wearing it. In fact, no garment should be worn directly after being pressed because it may be slightly damp.

A light touch is desirable when pressing. Some materials, such as crepe weaves, need only heat and no pressure of the iron; others need the weight of the iron. However, in no case is the movement the same as ironing when the iron is pushed over the fabric.

Never press directly on the right side of the fabric. Thick seams, plaques and pockets may be pressed by placing the garment right side up over a folded bath towel and covering fabric with a dry cloth. If moisture is needed, cover the dry cloth with a slightly damp one.

Avoid pushing the point of the iron into gathers. Rayons are weak when wet and pressing with the point of the iron may make holes in the fabric. Use a moderate heat for rayons and test the iron on a seam or around metal fasteners and buttons.

BROODY HENS ARE NOT HELPING PRODUCTION

A hen stops laying when she becomes broody. The time required to get her back into production is wasted as far as egg laying is concerned.

The longer a hen stays broody, the longer she remains out of production. As soon as a hen becomes broody, she should be removed from the nest. Some poultrymen confine broody birds in slat-bottomed coops which may be fastened to the wall in each pen. Others confine such hens to a wire-bottomed cage shelter close to the laying house. Tests at the Pennsylvania State College show that either method works effectively but the range system holds some complications in getting the bird back to the proper pen, if accurate records are maintained.

The birds should be leg-banded for each offense and, if any bird is a repeater, should be marketed. The reason for confining broody hens to slat or wire-bottomed coops, is that the hen is uncomfortable on this type of floor. If confined the first day she is broody and fed nothing but mash and water, chances are she will be ready to go back to the laying pen in 3 or 4 days.

ENTERING NEW PHASE OF WAR

Siege Work Against Strongly Fortified Land Positions Is Emphasized

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(INS)—America is entering a new phase of warfare, emphasizing the use of ground forces for siege work against strongly fortified land positions, according to the current issue of the Army and Navy Journal.

This is revealed, the Journal said today, by the high priority status which the War Production Board has given the manufacture of heavy (siege) artillery.

During the war's earlier days, his priorities were given to weapons needed urgently at the time: airplanes, tanks, tank destroyers and mobile 40 and 90 mm. guns, as well as anti-aircraft batteries.

Next came construction of landing craft. All the while the manufacture of siege guns was kept in the background. Now, as the Army and Navy Journal points out, these come to the forefront. Big guns are needed to blast heavily fortified positions protecting naz. forces.
